Background

The story begins in the year 1786 in Turin, when the herbalist Antonio Benedetto Carpano blended herbs and spices with Muscat vine. Thus he created the formula from which all distinctive Vermouths originate. Today Carpano is the principal ingredient in a range of unique cocktails served in some of the world's best clubs.

Tasting Notes

The scents and minerality of the wines balance the zesty and spiced notes of the herbs and spices. In the Carpano range, it has the most complex aroma. From the initial sweet taste, you immediately sense the complex, slightly bitter, botanical notes, which balance the vermouth and make it good for any occasion. The main ingredients are the fresh bitter orange peel, macis and cinnamon, which gives a particular spicy twist to the product.
